

Chemist Required

Career Opportunity

Uniqsis is a market leader in flow chemistry. Following excellent business growth this last year we are looking to recruit a chemist to work as a sales/ support specialist located at our office in Cambridge.

Educated to degree level (preferably with a PhD), the successful candidate will need to demonstrate a sound knowledge of chemical synthesis and an aptitude for working in a commercial environment with suitable training.

The job will include discussing customer requirement for flow chemistry, demonstrating equipment, making quotations and installing equipment at customers' sites.

Following a successful induction, 4 weeks travel per year will be envisaged throughout Europe and occasionally further afield.

If you are interested in a career in a commercial environment and are looking to use your chemical expertise in a leading Flow Chemistry Company please contact:
